මුලින් වැඩපත්‍රය කරන්න. පසුව පිළිතුරු සසඳා වැරදි නිවැරදි කරගන්න.

Open tasks: models show one possible response. Accept other accurate, relevant answers.

Page 1: Use your English

1. The passage shows that listening involves respecting how a person wants their story to be shared. The class first assumes that taking part in an interview permits online publication. However, one speaker enjoys talking to pupils without wanting her voice on a public website. This distinction leads to several choices, including an approved written summary or no recording at all. The final image of words travelling suggests that information can reach audiences far beyond the original conversation. One speaker's experience cannot tell the class what everyone else wants, so each person needs a separate choice. A practical next step is to ask permission for the specific intended use before recording or sharing. This would preserve the value of the stories while allowing contributors to keep control over their own accounts.

සම්මුඛ සාකච්ඡාවකට සහභාගී වීම ප්‍රසිද්ධියේ පළ කිරීමට දුන් අවසරයක් නොවන බැවින්, එක් එක් කථිකයාගේ කතාව පටිගත කිරීමට හෝ බෙදා ගැනීමට පෙර එම නිශ්චිත භාවිතයට අවසර ගත යුතුය.

2. When someone shares a story with you, ask how they want it used. They may enjoy speaking to your class without wanting a public recording. A clear choice helps everyone share with more confidence.

Page 2: Whose version is this?

1. The finish line seemed to move farther away with every step.

The answer must match the stated details; accept equivalent accurate wording.

2. The runner and spectator can give different useful perspectives on the race.

Check the complete meaning, the verb and punctuation. Accept an equally accurate correction.

3. Participant: My hands felt cold as I opened the speech. Observer: Nila placed her notes on the desk and began speaking. The first version describes an inner feeling; the second reports visible actions.

This is one model. Accept a relevant response that includes the requested details, uses clear language and does not invent claims about the source.
